So why Leeds?

Leeds is the Digital Capital of the North. A dynamic, creative hub that boasts the fastest growing digital economy outside of London

Leeds has cultivated a truly collaborative business ecosystem that has in recent years attracted some of the best and most innovative businesses of the digital age.

The city's booming media, digital film, gaming and creative sectors are already home to the likes of Burberry, Sky Betting & Gaming, XR Games and Channel 4. In 2021, the Bank of England also established the UK's Infrastructure Bank within the city, capitalising on its £13 billion financial and business services sector and contributing to the UK Government's wider 'Levelling Up' plans. Leeds also boasts a wealth of agencies and consultancies – providing a range of bespoke services from marketing to design and software development – most recently welcoming American multinational, Cognizant, and Australian fintech unicorn, PEXA, to the city.

Complementing its reputation as a hub for digital, Leeds City Region is also at the forefront of educating the next generation of tech talent. Our nine universities boast an output of 39,000 graduates each year, over half of which graduate in STEAM subjects. The city's achievements and ambition have also been recognised by our selection to participate in the MIT Regional Entrepreneurship Accelerator Programme, helping us to develop an innovation ecosystem that appeals to entrepreneurs and digital disruptors anywhere in the world.

Collaboration is hard-wired into the way we do business here. We believe that the best and most inclusive answers are those that are arrived at by bringing people together to extract a brilliant diversity of perspective and experience. We want to share this collaborative spirit, and the successes it enables with like-minded partners from around the world.

With over 240 events arranged, Leeds Digital Festival aims to inspire and drive collaboration to promote the strength of the sector in the city to a global audience. It's encouraging to see the sector and the city benefiting from this and outstripping what is happening nationally. It's a positive and healthy outlook for Leeds as a progressive city in the tech landscape.

The Festival

Leeds Digital Festival is an open, collaborative celebration of digital culture in all its forms.

Since it was first established in 2016, Leeds Digital Festival has gone from strength to strength, growing in both scale and visibility each year. What began as a few big ideas from tech organisers within the city – backed by the local tech community and a small grant – has evolved into the Festival as we know it today.

An open-platform celebration of all things tech and digital, the Festival harnesses the magic of the Leeds tech ecosystem's unique collaborative spirit, and showcases the digital enterprise and innovation that is happening in the City on a regional, national and international level.

The programme, which began as a series of 56 events in 2016, has since grown to include over 240 events in 2023, and the Festival has gained status as the largest 'open' tech event in the UK. With an ever-growing voice and reach, in 2024 Leeds Digital Festival will continue to celebrate the people and organisations who make Leeds and the North such a vibrant hub for digital.

Partnering with Leeds Digital Festival was so valuable for us as a digital business, through the relationships we formed, the events we both hosted and attended, we really felt we got a good chance to show Leeds what BJSS has to offer.

Rich McIntyre, BJSS

Looking ahead to 2024

In 2024, Leeds Digital Festival will return in two parts, meaning that sponsors will once again benefit from involvement in multiple festivals, in addition to the value derived from the year-round presence of the wider Leeds Digital brand.

Heading into our 9th year, we'll be kicking things off with our April "mini-fest" (23rd - 25th) – a small-but-mighty programme of events curated by the Festival team, featuring contributions from sponsors and friends of the Festival.

Returning between the 16th - 27th September, the main Festival will operate on its usual open-platform basis, inviting tech organisations and individuals from across the City Region to contribute events to the programme.

Looking beyond Leeds

With its roots firmly in Yorkshire soil, the Festival is a beacon of support for tech in the North. We remain, however, committed to working with regional, national and international partners to showcase the innovation taking place in the city, on both a local and international level.

In 2023, the Festival welcomed attendees from countries around the world – including France, China, Italy and the USA – and working with our sponsors in 2024, we will continue to transcend geographical barriers and allow event hosts, speakers and attendees to connect through the Leeds Digital ecosystem.

I owe my career to the Leeds Digital Festival. It inspired me to take the leap to retrain for a career in this industry, and as my career grew it not only gave me fantastic opportunities that I could have only dreamed of, but it also enabled me to make life-long connections and friends. We are so very lucky to have such an amazing tech community in Leeds, and I for one, am very grateful.

Supporting Leeds Digital

Leeds Digital is a non-profit organisation and home of the Leeds Digital Festival which has, since its very first year, been supported by the digital community within the city region.

Funded entirely by sponsorship, we work with local and regional organisations to celebrate the digital sector in Leeds, showcasing to the world the amazing talent and innovation within the city region. Without our sponsors, Leeds Digital Festival would not be possible, and their ongoing support has enabled us to grow and evolve so that we can maintain a year-round presence through the launch of Leeds Digital.

With the support of our sponsors we have been able to make Leeds Digital Festival the largest and most open tech event in the UK, and roll out the Leeds Digital platform – a platform where the City Region's tech community can come together to share knowledge, exchange ideas and collaborate.

Sponsoring Leeds Digital in 2024 will enable you to capitalise on this, connecting you with the digital sector in Leeds, the wider region and the rest of the world.
